Cookery Points

Pommes Parisiennes.—Pare some firm cooking apples and cook them gently in a thin sirup of sugar and water to which several thin strips of lemon rind have been added. Remove the apples and set them aside to drain and cool. When required for table arrange them in a deep glass dish surrounded by abundance of broken lemon jelly piled between and around the fruit. Cover each apple with a cone of stiffly whipped sweetened cream. Serve very cold.

Apple Cutlets.—Make a stiff apple puree, sweeten to taste and stir in a little softened gelatin. Set aside to cool. Meanwhile cut some slices of sponge cake, trim them neatly and lay them on a flat dish. Moisten each with a little fruit juice, and when the apple puree is partly cool cover each sponge slice with a layer of puree, keeping the whole shapely. When quite cold arrange on lace paper doilies or in an ornamental dish. Ornament with cut angelica and crystallized violets.

Pommes Polaires.—Peel, core and quarter some good cooking apples. Cook them gently till tender and set aside till quite cold. Arrange them in a deep glass dish, cover with Devonshire cream, scatter chopped pistachio nuts over all and serve as cold as possible with water biscuits or sponge fingers.

Apple Salad.—Peel and core some eating apples of good flavor. Cut the fruit into thin slices. Arrange these in a pretty glass dish, sprinkle among the fruit some finely chopped nuts and shredded pineapple, dust with caster sugar, moisten with a little fruit juice and serve very cold.

Good Things to Know.

Watercress mixed with two or three tablespoonfuls of minced crisply fried bacon and dressed with vinegar, salt and pepper makes a tasty supper salad.

Boiled rice dropped by tablespoonfuls around fried chicken or meat ragout makes a dainty border. But the rice should not be pressed down into a solid mass, as many cooks unthinkingly do it. It is as important to lovers

For Skin Health

A lifetime of disfigurement and suffering often results from improper treatment of the skin or neglect of simple skin affections. Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, affords the purest, sweetest and most economical method of caring for the complexion, preventing minor eruptions from becoming chronic, and speedily dispelling severe eczemas and other torturing humors, itchy and irritations, from infancy to age.

of rice that it be light and fluffy as it is that bread should be of such a quality.

For a cheese rice custard for a substantial dish or an entree, mash a cupful of boiled rice to a paste, add an egg and a cupful of milk, season with a teaspoonful of butter, a tablespoonful or two of grated cheese, a little salt and pepper and turn into a baking dish or custard cups. Bake until the custard sets and the top is brown.

After Dinner Coffee.

Cafe noir is a strong decoction of black coffee which is served in small cups and is often partaken of unsweetened or merely flavored with a teaspoonful of brandy, or it may be sweetened with a spoonful of stiffly whipped cream on the top of each cup.

To produce Turkish coffee the coffee is put into its little metal pot in the proportion of two large tablespoonfuls of coffee, two lumps of sugar and half a pint of boiling water. Allow it to boil and bring it to a boil three times, after which pour it off into hot cups. This coffee should be served without milk or cream.

Bird's Nest Pudding.

Pare and core six large, sound apples, then put them into your well buttered biscuit pan; now mix together five heaping teaspoonfuls of flour, one scant teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of milk into a smooth paste, then add the yolks of three well beaten eggs; add the whites and another cup of milk; pour this over the apples, bake one hour; serve hot with hard sauce or sweetened whipped cream flavored with lemon extract.

Peanut Cookies.

Shell and rub off the inner skin of sufficient roasted peanuts to measure one pint when chopped fine. Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter and one cupful of sugar; add three eggs, two tablespoonfuls of milk, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, the chopped nuts and sufficient flour to make a soft dough. Roll out, cut in circles and bake in a moderate oven.

Cream of Celery Soup.

To two stalks of grated celery and one-half cupful of boiled rice add one pint of new milk and simmer all together gently until the celery and rice can be pressed through a sieve. Season to taste after adding one quart of hot milk thickened with a little cornstarch dissolved in cold water. Serve hot with toasted bread sticks.

To Whip Cream.

If the bowl of cream is kept in a pan of ice water during beating there will not be the embarrassment of seeing it come to butter when butter is the last thing that is wanted. The cream should be very cold before the work begins.

Five Lines About It.

"Wise men hesitate—only fools are certain," he observed, in the course of a conversation with his tender spouse. "I don't know about that," she said, testily. "Well, I am certain of it!" he exclaimed.

When the pie is ready for the oven pour cold water over it and drain; put at once into a hot oven and it will bake a rich, brown glossy surface and the crust will be much flakier.

The flies that are now in your kitchen and dining-room were probably feasting on some indescribable nastiness less than an hour ago, and as a single fly often carries many thousands of disease germs attached to its hairy body, it is the duty of every housekeeper to assist in exterminating this worst enemy of the human race. Wilson's Fly Pads kill flies in such immense quantities as cannot be approached by any other fly killer.

Through indiscretion in eating green fruit in summer many children become subject to cholera morbis caused by irritating acids that act violently on the lining of the intestines. Pains and dangerous purging ensue, and the delicate system of the child suffers under the strain. In such cases the safest and surest medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It will check the inflammation and save the child's life.

SEVEN YEARS PAIN FROM ACUTE NEURALGIA

CURED THROUGH THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS

Neuralgia is not a disease—it is only a symptom. It is the surest sign that your blood is weak, watery and impure, and that your nerves are literally starving. Bad blood is the one cause—good, rich, red blood its only cure. There you have the real reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure neuralgia. They are the only medicine that contains, in correct proportions, the very elements needed to make new, rich, red blood. This alone reaches the root of the trouble, soothes the jangled nerves, and drives away the nagging, stabbing pain, and braces up your health in other ways. Mr. M. Brennan, an ex-sergeant of the 2nd Cheshire Regiment, now a resident of Winnipeg, Man., says: "While serving with my regiment in India, on a hill station, I contracted a severe cold which brought on acute neuralgia, at times lasting for three weeks. I was constantly suffering almost every month in the year for over seven years, the pain being sometimes so severe that I wished I was dead. On my return to England I seemed to get no better, though I spent large sums of money for medical advice and medicine. Then I came to Canada, and about a year ago saw the advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a Winnipeg paper. Although I had begun to think my complaint was incurable I told my wife that I intended giving the Pills a fair trial. I was suffering from terrible pains when I began taking the Pills, but before the second box was finished the pain began to disappear, and under a further use of the Pills it disappeared entirely, and I have not had a twinge of it during the past year. Only those who have been afflicted with the terrible pains of neuralgia can tell what a blessing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been to me, and you may be sure I shall constantly recommend them to other sufferers."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Thoughtful Wife

"I hate to boast," said a lawyer, "but my wife is one of the most economical women in the world. The other day she told me she needed a new suit. I said she ought to have it, by all means, but asked her not to spend a big bunch of money without letting me know about it. Well, the next day she said: 'The tailor said he couldn't make that suit for less than $150. I thought it was too much, but told him to go ahead.'"

"Well, I suppose it is all right," I said, "but why didn't you consult me first?"

"Why, dearie, I didn't want to spend car fare for two visits."

"I tell you, it's these little economies that count, eh."—Cleveland Press.

No Ability to Digest Food

NERVOUS SYSTEM SO EXHAUSTED THAT VITAL ORGANS ARE FEEBLE IN ACTION

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The digestive system is a wonderful piece of machinery, but power is necessary to make it effective.

In this case the power is the nerve force contained in the body, and, if the nerve force is lacking the digestive system becomes crippled and there is suffering from indigestion, nervous headaches, neuralgic pains, dizzy spells, weakness and discouragement.

Strength cannot be regained from the food you eat so long as digestion is so imperfect, but you can be restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which contains in condensed pill form the very elements of nature which go to form new nerve force.

Overwork, worry, anxiety and excessive mental effort exhaust the nervous system at a tremendous rate, and repair must be made before some dreadful form of disease sets in. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, sharpens the appetite, is slightly laxative, so as to encourage the action of the bowels and strengthens every organ of the body.

You can use this treatment feeling certain that every dose is doing you at least some good, and can prove it by noting your increase in weight.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

The Cost of Advertising

A single page in a single issue of the Century taken for advertising purposes costs $500; in Harpers $400; in other prominent magazines from $350 down to $100. A yearly advertisement of one column in the Chicago Tribune costs $26300; in the New York Tribune $29000 for the lowest, and $35950 for the highest rates; in the New York Herald $36203 for the lowest and $49000 for the highest priced column. These papers, it is said, are never at a loss for advertising to fill their columns. These figures will doubtless be of interest to the man who invests a few dollars on the understanding with himself that he is purchasing something of doubtful value when he buys newspaper space.

THE FOUR FINGERS

By FRED M. WHITE,

Author of

The Crimson Blind; The Cardinal
Moth; The Weight of the Crown;
The Corner House; The Slaves of Silence; Craven Fortune; The Fatal Dose; Netta.

Le Fenu paused and glanced significantly at Fenwick's maimed hand. The latter had no more to say; all his swaggering assurance had left him—he sat huddled up in his chair a picture of abject terror and misery.

"You can help me if you will," he said hoarsely. "You are speaking of Zary. That man is no human being at all, he is no more than a cold-blooded tiger, and yet he would do anything for you and yours. If you asked him to spare me—"

Fenwick broke off and covered his face with his hands. His shoulders were heaving with convulsive sobs now, tears of maddened self-pity ran through his fingers. For the time being, at any rate, the man's nerve was utterly gone. He was prepared to make any conditions to save his skin. Agitated and broken as he was, his cunning mind was yet moving swiftly. A little time ago, these two men would not have dared to intrude themselves upon his presence, he had held them like prisoners in the hollow of his hand; and now it seemed to him that they must feel their position to be impregnable, or they would never have intruded upon him in this bold fashion.

"I am not the man I was," he gasped. "It is only lately that my nerve seems to have utterly deserted me. You do not know what it is to be fighting in the dark against a foe so cold and relentless as Felix Zary. When the first warning came I was alarmed. The second warning frightened me till I woke in the night with a suffocating feeling at my heart as if I were going to die. Against the third warning I took the most elaborate precautions; but it came all the same, and since then I have been drinking to drown my terror. But what is the good of that?—how little does it serve me in my sober moments? As I said just now, Zary would do anything for your family, if you would induce him to forego that dreaded vengeance which hangs over me—"

"Impossible," Le Fenu said coldly. "Zary is a fanatic, a dreamer of dreams; he has religion of his own which no one else in the world understands but himself. He firmly believes that some divine power is impelling him on, that he is merely an instrument in the hands of the Maker of the universe. There have been other beings of the same class in a way. Charlotte Corday believed herself to be the chosen champion of Heaven when she stabbed the French monster in his bath. Nothing I could say or do would turn Zary from what he believes to be his duty. The only thing you can do is to go away and lose yourself in some foreign country where Zary cannot follow you."

"Impossible," Fenwick said hoarsely. "I could not get away. If the man possesses the powers he claims, he would know where to find me, even if I hid myself in the depths of a Brazilian forest. I tell you I am doomed. I cannot get away from the inevitable."

Fenwick slipped from his chair and fairly grovelled in his anguish on the floor. It was a pitiable sight, but one that moved the watchers with contempt. They waited patiently enough for the paroxysm of terror to pass and for Fenwick to resume something like the outer semblance of manhood. He drew himself up at length, and wiped the tears from his sickly yellow face.

"I cannot think," he said. "My mind seems to have ceased to act. If either of you have any plan I shall be grateful to hear it. It seems almost impossible—"

The speaker suddenly paused, for there came from downstairs the unmistakable sounds of high voices raised in expostulation. It occurred to Fenwick for a moment that his subordinates were quarrelling among themselves; then his quick ears discerned the sound of strange voices. He rose to his feet and made in the direction of the door, and a voice whispered, asking to be admitted. Evors glanced at Le Fenu in an interrogative kind of way, as if asking for instructions. The latter nodded, and the door opened. The man in the light slippers staggered into the room, his red face white and quivering, his whole aspect eloquent of fear.

"What is it?" Fenwick whispered. "What's the trouble? Why don't you speak out, man, instead of standing there like that?"

The man found his voice at last, his words came thickly.

"They are here," he said. "The men from America. You know whom I mean. Get away at once. Wait for nothing. Those two devils Egan and Grady are downstairs in the hall."

CHAPTER XXV. An Act of Charity.

Fenwick looked at the speaker as if he did not exactly comprehend what he had said. The man's mind was apparently dazed, as if the accumulation of his troubles had been too much for him. He passed his hand across his forehead, striving to collect his thoughts and to find some way of facing this new and unexpected peril.

"Say that again," he faltered. "I don't quite understand. Surely Egan and Grady are in New York."

"They are both down in the hall," the man in the light slippers said, vehemently. "And, what's more, they know that you are here. If you don't want to spend the night in jail, get away without any further delay."

Fenwick could only look about him helplessly. It seemed to him futile to make any further effort. Turn which way he would, there was no avenue open to him. He looked imploringly in the direction of Charles Evors.

"I think I can manage it," the latter said. "Now, you fellow, whatever your name is, leave the room at once and go downstairs, and close the door behind you."

The man in the light slippers slunk away, and, at a sign from Le Fenu, Evors closed the door. Evors jumped to his feet and crossed the room to where a picture was let into the dark panelling. He pushed this aside and disclosed a dark opening beyond to Fenwick's astonished gaze. The latter stared at him.

"Now, get through there," Evors said. "It's a good thing for you that I know all the secrets of the old house. There are many panels and passages here, for this used to be a favorite hiding place for the fugitive cavaliers in the time of Cromwell."

"But where does it go to?" Fenwick stammered.

Evors explained that the passage terminated in a bedroom a little distance away. He went on to say that Fenwick would only have to press his hand upon the wall and that the corresponding panel of the bedroom would yield to his touch.

"It is the Blue Room," he said, "in which you will find yourself presently. Wait there and I'll see what I can do for you. I fancy that I shall be able to convey you outside the walls of the house without anybody being the wiser."

Fenwick crept through the hole, and Evors pulled the panel across, leaving the room exactly as it had been a few minutes before. He had hardly done so when there was a sound of footsteps outside, and without ceremony the American detectives came in. The occupants of the room had had ample time to recover their self-possession, so that they could look coolly at the intruders and demand to know what this outrage meant. The Americans were clearly puzzled.

"I am sure I beg your pardon," Egan said, "but I understand that Mr. Fenwick is the tenant of the house."

"That is so," Evors said. "Do you generally come into a gentleman's house in this unceremonious fashion?"

"Perhaps I had better explain my errand," Egan said. "We are down here with a warrant for the apprehension of Mark Fenwick, and we know that a little time ago he was in the house. He is wanted on a charge of stealing certain valuables in New York, and also for uttering counterfeit coins. We quite expected to find him here."

"In that case, of course, you have perfect liberty to do as you please," Evors said. "I may explain that I am the only son of Lord Merton, and that I shall be pleased to do anything to help you that lies in my power. By all means search the house."

Grady appeared as if about to say something, but Egan checked him. It was no time for the Americans to disclose the fact that they knew all about the murder of Mr. George Le Fenu, and how Evors had been more or less dragged into the business. Their main object now was to get hold of Fenwick without delay, and take him back with them to London.

"Very well, sir," Egan said. "We need not trouble you any further. If our man is anywhere about the house, we are bound to find him. Come along, Grady."

They bustled out of the room, and presently they could be heard ranging about the house. As the two friends discussed the situation in whispers the door was flung open and Vera came in. Her face was aflame with indignation—she was quivering with a strange, unaccustomed passion.

"Charles," she cried. "I hardly expected to see you here."

"Perhaps you are equally surprised to see Evors," Le Fenu said. "We have had an explanation."

"I have already met Charles," Vera said. "But he did not tell me you were coming down here. Still, all that is beside the point. There will be plenty of time for full explanation later on. What I have to complain of now is an intolerable outrage on the part of Mark Fenwick. He has actually dared to intrude himself on the privacy of my bedroom, and despite all I can say—"

"By Jove, this is a piece of bad luck," Evors exclaimed. "My dear Vera, I had not the slightest idea that you were occupying the blue room. In fact, I did not know that it was being used at all. I managed to send Fenwick that way for the simple reason that there are two American detectives downstairs with a warrant for his arrest. It was your brother's idea to get him away—"

"What for?" Vera asked, passionately. "Why should we trouble ourselves for the safety of an abandoned wretch like that? He is the cause of all our troubles and sorrows. For the last three years he has blighted the lives of all of us, and there is worse than that—for, as sure as I am speaking to you now, the blood of our dear father is upon his head."

"Yes, and mine might have been also, but for a mere miracle," Le Fenu said. "He tried to do away with me—he would have done away with all of us if he had only dared. But one thing do not forget—he is our mother's only brother."

Vera started and bit her lips. It was easy to see that the appeal was not lost upon her, and that she was ready now to fall in with her brother's idea. She waited quite humbly for him to speak.

"I am glad you understand," he said. "It would never do for us to hand that man over to justice, richly as he deserves his sentence. And you can help us if you will. Those men will search every room in the house, including yours. If you are in there when they come and show a certain amount of indignation—"

"Oh, I quite understand," Vera responded. "And I will do what I can for that wretched creature."

"What is he doing now?" Le Fenu asked.

"He has huddled himself up in a wardrobe," Vera explained. "He seems so paralyzed with fear that I could not get anything like a coherent account of what had happened. Anyway, I will go back to my room now. You need not be afraid for me."

As the matter turned out, Vera had no time to spare, for she was hardly back in her room before the detectives were at the door. She came out to them, coldly indignant, and demanded to know what this conduct meant. As was only natural, the Americans were profoundly regretful and almost abjectly polite, but they had their duty to perform, and they would be glad to know if Vera had seen anything of Mark Fenwick, for whose apprehension they held a warrant.

Queer Ways of Old Days.

Interesting reminiscences of St. John, N.B., are being given in the St. John Globe, by Clarence Ward.

Telling of the treatment of people in the asylum for the insane nearly four score years ago, he says:

"Blood-letting and restraint appear to have played a prominent part, and light and bathing to have been considered luxuries. Amongst the items charged for maintenance are the following: Paid W. McBay, for twelve hogheads of water (for one month), one pound, fifteen shillings. W. Hammond, for thirty pounds of rush lights, one pound, five shillings. Harvie and Allan, for eight tin bleeding cups and one tin pan, seven shillings and sixpence. D. Collins (saddler), for three hand muffers, one pound, fifteen shillings. G. T. Ray, for twelve strait waistcoats, at twenty shillings each, twelve pounds.

"The twelve hogheads of water above mentioned must have been for drinking and cooking purposes—'tea water,' as it was called in old times. The item for rush-lights gives one the impression of people living in the 'dark' ages—and the reason for their use must have been a rigid economy. It is difficult to conceive how they managed after dark to follow their occupations with no other light than that furnished by a rush light—which was made from the pith of a rush dipped in tallow, the flame of which was not much brighter than the glimmer of a match."

Mistaken Identity.

A story is going the rounds of Winnipeg just now which may or may not be original. It appears that a number of financial people were floating a company which was to be European in character, but which was also to have a Winnipeg board of directors. One man was sent to London to organize that end, while his business associates arranged the domestic portion. He reached London and did his work; then went on to Berlin and thence to Paris. Arriving there with his arrangements complete, he sent a code message to the following effect: "Just arrived. Send names best men for local directorate." When this message reached Winnipeg, it was handed over to a clerk to translate. He either used the wrong code or was a blunderer, and produced the following translation of the code words: "Just arrived with shaft out of level and engine strained."

Campbellton's Recovery.

Campbellton, N.B., the town which was nearly wiped off the map by fire, is rapidly growing up again. Building operations on a very large scale are being undertaken, and as the new fire laws prohibit the erection of frame buildings in the centre of the town, the terrible conflagration of several months ago is not likely to be repeated. Among improvements planned is the construction of a modern electric power plant to replace the present temporary structure.

Poverty came in at the door. Love immediately flew out of the window.

"Ah," said those who observed, "this is what comes of being fresh air faddists!"

Provision For Regent.

By a special Regency Act, passed last year, Queen Mary was appointed Regent in the event of a child of King George V. succeeding to the throne before the age of eighteen.

For Health and Economy Eat more Bread

TEN cents will feed an ordinary family a day on first class bread. This does not mean ordinary bread. For there is an important difference between ordinary bread and first class bread.

It isn't a difference of looks or methods of making or baking. It is a difference of nutrition, food value, healthfulness. And this food value depends on the flour used. For there is a wide difference between flours.

If all flour were the best flour, then all bread, properly made, would be good bread. But all flour is not first class because all wheat is not first class. Wheat, you know, varies in quality almost as much as apples or potatoes; there are as many different grades of wheat as there are grades of butter—or wool.

And every difference in grade represents an actual difference in nourishing value, food elements, wholesomeness. Flour made from a low grade of wheat is by no means so healthful as flour made from high grade wheat. Now the wheat that goes into

is of the very highest grade. It contains the highest possible percentage of nutritive value. The makers of "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" maintain expensive laboratories and baking departments where skilled men scientifically analyse each day's milling. None but the very best Red Fife wheat—rich in nutrition and healthfulness—can pass. For this reason bread made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR contains the maximum of food value and furnishes the maximum of energy and strength. And for the same reason "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" makes the finest pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins, rolls, and pastry of all kinds. It is the one flour that a housewife should use in order to have her household baking strictly first class.

Etiquette For Husbands.

The model husband should learn Esperanto. It contains no swear words.

The husband of a woman with a mission should not drink more than just enough to produce semi-oblivion.

The husband of a lady doctor should not boast of what "we" know. He doesn't know anything; his wife knows it all.

The husband of a suffragette orator should, if possible, be born deaf and dumb. If he hasn't this virtue he should assume it.

The husband of a school teacher should never stay out late at night without bringing home a written excuse in the morning.

The husband of the landlady of a select boarding house should efface himself as much as possible. The guests will be more reconciled to their own condition of things if they believe he is worse off than they are. He should never "answer back" to his wife, as such conduct has a tendency to tempt the boarders to do likewise. Above all else, he should avoid being fat, for that might lead them to suspect that he was getting "bites" between meals. His role should be that of the clinging vine, pure and simple—especially simple.

Prospects Looked Bright.

"Your husband looks very happy this evening?"

"I guess it is because of what he just said to me."

"And what was that?"

"He said I was driving him to drink."

Land for Education.

Education ought to be well provided for in the Canadian West if proper care is taken of the property set aside for its endowment.

An official compilation shows that the land area set aside in the prairie country to provide funds for school purposes is 23,500,000 acres. So far a million and a half acres have been sold, the sum realized being over $2,500,000.

No "Uncles" in Quebec.

According to a recent report there is not a single pawnbroker in Quebec, the last person in that business having died about 30 years ago. Since that time no one has applied for a license. One reason is probably the high license fee required to be paid by persons wishing to engage in pawnbroking. Again, it may be due to the absence of extreme poverty among the native population and the ready assistance extended to deserving poor by a number of charitable organizations.

GOVERNMENT TO PROTECT GAME

GAME TO BE CARED FOR IN ROCKY MOUNTAINS

Superintendent of Forestry Campbell Declares That Establishment of Forest Reserve on the East Slope of the Rockies Will Not Open Park to Hunters—Will Prevent all Trespass.

Calgary.—That the whole of the eastern slope of the Rockies, set aside by the Dominion government as a forest reserve, will be also in effect a gigantic game preserve was the statement made recently by R. H. Campbell, superintendent of forestry. It was feared that the reduction in area of Jasper park, Rocky Mountain park, Banff park and others, in consequence of the new forest reservations, would result in the throwing open to sports men of areas in which for ten years or more the game has been most strictly guarded. Such, however, is not the case.

In explaining the situation Mr. Campbell said: There seems to be considerable misunderstanding in regard to the effect on the protection of game in the Rocky mountains of the re-establishment of parks within the Rocky mountains forest reserve since the passage at the last session of the Dominion parliament of the forest reserves and parks act. It may be explained that the act in question sets apart as a forest reserve the whole eastern slope of the Rocky mountains from the international boundary on the south to the boundary of the province of British Columbia, where the 120th meridian crosses the Rocky mountains in the north. This reserve includes all the areas now or formerly set apart as parks in the Rocky mountains by the Dominion government.

The said act provides for the prevention of trespass within the whole forest reserve, and under the authority of the act and the regulations established thereunder any person may be prevented from entering upon the reserve or may be removed therefrom by the forest ranger, and any person so trespassing will be subject to the penalties provided by the act for an infraction of the regulations. It is proposed to use the powers so conferred by the act for the protection of game to the fullest extent that may be necessary and this will be absolutely the case in the district within the former boundaries of the Dominion parks.

The parks are established as pleasure resorts with the object of inducing people to go into them and make use of them as freely as possible, but in the remainder of the forest reserve the intention is to enforce the act and regulations for the protection of the forests and the game even to the exclusion of the public, if necessary.

The forest reserve on the eastern slope of the Rockies will be the largest in America. It will extend north and south for a distance of about 500 miles, and will have a width of from 30 to 40 miles. The southern boundaries of the reserve were located last year, and parties are now in the field locating the northern boundaries.

Mr. Campbell states that the year 1911 so far has been exceptionally free from fire. The only serious forest fire in Western Canada was the one at Prince Albert. The absence of fires has been largely due to the wetness of the season.

Special precautions are to be taken to protect the timber along the Athabasca river and shores of the Lesser Slave lake. A fire patrol, built at Prairie Creek (mile 65 G. T. P.) has been floated down the river to Athabasca Landing. While 40 feet in length, the boat draws but 18 inches of water. Its engines are guaranteed to send it against the stream at a speed of from six to eight miles. This boat will pass over the most shallow places and will be of great service in rushing men and supplies to the scene of fire.

Extra fire rangers, Mr. Campbell states, are being placed in the forest areas of the Smoky and Wapiti rivers, in Grande Prairie.

May Have Several Plants in West

Toronto.—Mark Bredin, general manager of the newly formed Canada Bread Co., Ltd., says that it is the intention of the company to immediately proceed in the erection of a modern bread plant in Winnipeg. He also intimated that the company would devote particular attention to the western field with great probability of it having plants in Regina, Calgary and Vancouver.

Columbus, Ohio.—More than a half hundred persons were injured, only one of whom may die, when Big Four train No. 46, the fast Cincinnati-New York special, was wrecked just west of this city. The most seriously injured is Mabel Heminger, aged seven, of Mount Carmel, Ill., whose left arm was torn off and her head badly bruised.

MISS BESELLI TOO CONFIDING

Was Defrauded by a Crook, Who Used Cloak of Religion for the Purpose

Milan.—Giuseppina Biselli, an employee in an India Rubber heel factory, is a remarkably credulous young person, if one may judge by the story which she has just told at the Central police office, whither she repaired to complain that she had been defrauded of her savings, amounting to $90. Somewhat of a pessimistic turn of mind, she was always complaining of her bad luck. One day, while walking along the street with the utmost gloom depicted on her countenance, she was approached by a woman about 40 years of age, dressed in black, who, fixing her piercing eyes upon the despondent Giuseppina, inquired what was the matter with her. Giuseppina poured out her whole-hearted load of woe. The black-robed dame was full of sympathy. "I know precisely what the trouble is," she replied, "I have seen many cases of the kind. You have got the devil in your blood. Shall I get rid of him for you?"

Poor Giuseppina was too terrified to question the accuracy of the assertion. It must be true. Could such a sympathetic creature as the woman in black deceive her? Impossible! So, without a moment's hesitation, she said she would be eternally grateful if she could be free from her unwelcome guest. The wise woman thereupon told her how the thing must be done. She must collect all her savings, put them in a box which her friend would give her, and carry them as a present to the Madonna. The present would only require to be left in the church for a few minutes while certain special prayers were being said.

Accordingly the box was got ready, bound with string, the knots of which were sealed, and the two women repaired with it to the Church of San Carlo. The box was placed at the foot of the altar, a taper was lighted in honor of the Virgin, and Giuseppina repeated the special prayers at the dictation of her kind instructress. Finally, the latter held up the box in front of the statue for a few moments, and returned it to her ingenious dupe. "The box is now blessed," she said, "carry it home, but do not open it for a week. You are relieved from your infernal enemy. I will see you tomorrow."

Tomorrow came, but it did not bring the unknown benefactress. Giuseppina began to grow suspicious, but she was afraid to open the box until the prescribed week had expired. Then, with trembling fingers, she broke the seals, and undid the string with which the box was tied. It contained nothing but a bundle of papers. The $90 had disappeared. An inspection revealed the fact that the box was provided with a false bottom, which permitted the removal of its contents without breaking the seals or untying any knots. More disconsolate than ever, Giuseppina Biselli carried her story to the police, who are now searching for a sympathetic woman clothed in black, and with dark, piercing eyes.

Freight Train Badly Wrecked

North Bay, Ont.—A freight train on the T. and N. O. railway was wrecked sixty miles north of here, several cars leaving the track and piling up in the ditch. Two men beating their way on top of a box car were hurled beneath the wreckage and seriously injured. Louis Leblanc is in New Liskeard hospital and may die. John Labele was dug out of the wreckage with a badly cut head, but was able to continue his journey after his injuries were dressed.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON IX.—THIRD QUARTER, FOR AUGUST 27, 1911

Text of the Lesson, Jer. xxxix, 1-10. Memory Verses, 9, 10—Golden Text, Num. xxxii, 23—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

We have come to the end of the story of Judah for the time being, for when in captivity their history ceases during that period. Thus the 573 years of Acts xiii, 17-21, from the exodus to the building of the temple, perfectly agrees with the 480 of 1 Kings vi, 1, by subtracting the ninety-three years of the captivities in Judg. iii, iv, vi, xiii; so also the whole period of the present age of Israel's rejection of Christ, which comes in between the sixty-nine weeks and the seventieth week of Dan. ix, 25-27. Every believer should lay to heart that all time spent out of fellowship with Christ is time lost.

The ten tribes had been carried captive in the ninth year of their King Hosea, which was about the sixth year of Hezekiah, king of Judah. The Lord had borne with Judah about 130 years longer, sending them prophet after prophet and giving them such good kings as Hezekiah and Josiah, but they were incorrigible. "They mocked the messengers of God and despised His words and misused His prophets until the wrath of the Lord arose against His people till there was no remedy. Therefore He brought upon them the king of the Chaldees" (II Chron. xxxvi, 15, 17, 21).

The account of this siege of Jerusalem, with the capture of Zedekiah and many of his people, is recorded in Jer. lii and II Kings xxv, and more fully in those two chapters than in our lesson chapter. There were at least two very strange things in connection with this siege and the capture of Zedekiah. Ezekiel was a captive in Babylon, hundreds of miles distant, and yet without telephone or telegraph or wireless he was told to note the very day the siege began and set it forth by an object lesson to the captives at Babylon (Ezek. xxiv, 1-3; Jer. lii, 4). He was told to tell the captives that the king would be carried to Babylon and die there, yet he would not see Babylon (Ezek. xli, 13). This is explained by verse 7 of our lesson. The time and manner of the flight of the king and his men of war from the city, according to verse 4 of our lesson, were also seen by the prophet in Babylon and set forth before the people by an object lesson (Ezek. xli, 1-13).

The capture of Zedekiah by night helps to make more real that the darkness and the light are both alike to Him with whom we have to do; that we cannot escape Him when He wants us; that it is impossible to hide from Him (Ps. cxxxix, 1-12).

We think of Jonah and his capture and second commission and also of Num. xxxii, 23, "Be sure your sin will find you out." On the other hand, consider how safe we are when God hides us. Think of Moses in a cleft of the rock with God's hand covering him, of Elijah hidden by the brook Cherith and at Zarephath and of Jeremiah and Baruch hidden from Jehoikim! If we are true believers we may well rejoice that our life is hid with Christ in God (Col. iii, 3). From the murder of Abel to the present time and on to the time when he shall be shut up for a thousand years the devil's motto seems to be "Kill, kill!" See his dread work in verse 6 of our lesson. Yet the murder of Zedekiah's sons bears no comparison to the murder of the Son of God in the presence of Mary, His mother. These men and all others die because of their own sins. He died for the sins of the whole world.

Some were carried captive to Babylon for their good, like Daniel and his friends, Ezekiel and others, but Zedekiah and his companions were carried captive as a reproach and a proverb, a taunt and a curse. This was shown to Jeremiah in the vision of the two baskets of figs (Jer. xxiv). It is not true concerning every one that "all is for the best," but it is true concerning all who are redeemed by precious blood; that all things are for their good that they may become in their daily life more like Jesus Christ (Rom. viii).

So the city was taken and burned, and the walls were broken down and the people carried into captivity for seventy years, as the Lord had predicted by Jeremiah (chapter xxix, 10). The mountains remained as before, and it is written, "As the mountains (not the walls) are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about His people from henceforth even forever."

The captain of the guard left in the land some of the poor of the people who had nothing and gave them vineyards and fields (verse 10), reminding us of Zeph. iii, 12, "I will also leave in the midst of thee an afflicted and poor people, and they shall trust in the name of the Lord." One feature of the coming kingdom will be kings' special care of and favor to the poor and the needy (Ps. lxxii, 1-4, 12, 13).

Jeremiah was still a prisoner when the city was taken (xxxviii, 28), but the captain of the guard (the chief of the executioners—margin verse 9—received orders from the king of Babylon to look well to him, do him no harm, but do whatever Jeremiah might desire (verses 11, 12; chapter xl, 2-5). Thus was fulfilled the Lord's promise to Jeremiah in chapter i, 19, "I am with thee, saith the Lord, to deliver thee."

C. P. R.'S NEW STEAMERS

Two Great Floating Palaces Ordered for the Atlantic Ocean Traffic

Montreal.—It has been officially announced that the Canadian Pacific railway recently placed an order in England for two new steamships for Vancouver-Hong Kong service. This step has been under contemplation for some time. The C. P. R.'s rapidly increasing freight and passenger traffic on the Pacific ocean necessitating the securing of increased transportation facilities.

The contract for the new boats has been let to the Fairfield Shipbuilding company of Glasgow, one of the most famous firms along the Clyde. The new ship will be of the most modern in every respect. They will be 595 feet long over all and will have a tonnage of about 16,000 tons. They will be equipped with engines of from 16,000 to 17,000 horse power and will be required to maintain an average speed of eighteen knots per hour and develop on their trial trips a speed of twenty knots an hour. In size a trifle larger than the Atlantic Empresses, the new boats will have accommodation for thirteen hundred passengers and will also have a huge freight carrying capacity. The new boats will be literally floating palaces. They will be luxuriously finished up and will undoubtedly materially decrease the running time between Vancouver and the Orient. The boats will be ready in January 1913, and will cost over $2,500,000 each fully equipped.

SERIOUS MOTOR ACCIDENT

Two Persons Were Killed and Two Others Were Badly Injured

Montreal.—Two persons were killed and two others badly injured at Rosemore, 20 miles from Montreal, recently, when an automobile carrying four passengers skidded off the wooden bridge and plunged into the waters of the river Jesu. The dead are: Mr. Joseph Gorman, an ex-mayor of the municipality of Outremont, and a woman whose name could not be ascertained. The two persons injured were Mr. Joseph Egan, of Montreal, and a woman whose name it was impossible to learn.

The accident occurred at 11.30 o'clock, when, after a run through the country, the automobile was being driven back over the bridge from Rosemore to Stros. The car was proceeding at a fair rate of speed, when just past the shore it skidded suddenly and plunged over the side into the river below. At the joint where the accident occurred the bridge is only about eight feet over the river, and the water is only a few feet deep. In leaving the bridge the car turned a somersault, and the occupants of the front seat, the two persons killed, had no chance to escape.

Drinking Cups Tolerated

Omaha.—The public, as well as the individual drinking cup, has been barred from the schools of this city, and in their place has been substituted the bubbling, automatic drinking fountain. The banishing of the public or common drinking cup was due to the passage of a law. The individual drinking cup had to go because it was a nuisance. They were lost, or broken, and then the owners had to go without water unless they could borrow the cup of some friend. Under the new plan when a pupil desires he simply puts his mouth to the stream flowing from the fountain.

Aeroplane Patent Case Before Court

Chicago, Ill.—An appeal to the United States courts to settle a claim, that is said to bear the same relation to the aviation world that the Selden patent case did to the automobile world, was started here recently. Suit was filed by the Wright company in the United States district court against the International Meet association, its officers and members, claiming an infringement of patents by everyone of these two score aeroplanes at the meet, and asking prospective profits and damages.

Scottish Home Rule

London.—The desire for home rule in Scotland is assuming a more concrete form. As a first step Sir Henry James Dalzell, newspaper proprietor and member of parliament for Kirkcaldy Burghs, introduced in the House of Commons recently a bill to establish a legislature in Scotland to deal with purely Scottish affairs.

Horseman's Suspicious Death

Hamilton.—James Perkins, of Lexington, Kentucky, horseowner and jockey, left his boarding house recently to make a few purchases. He returned shortly, complained to his wife of feeling ill and died shortly after. Detectives are investigating and an inquest will be held.

Earthquake in Orient

Manilla.—The seismograph here recorded a series of strong earthquakes as occurring at an estimated distance of 2,000 miles from Manilla. The tremors continued with violence for a period of two hours.

WOMAN COMMITS AWFUL CRIME

ONTARIO MOTHER STRANGLES HER TWO CHILDREN

Then Suicides by Hanging—Mrs. Pettigrew, of Lion's Head, Who Had Suffered Sickness for Years, Commits Awful Crimes—It Was Evident that the Children Had Fought Hard for Their Lives.

Lion's Head, Ont.—Years of sickness culminated in a tragedy recently that is without parallel here, when Mrs. Thomas Pettigrew strangled her two children to death, and then placing them side by side in bed, hanged herself. The three dead bodies were discovered the morning after the tragedy, when neighbors, noticing no life around the house, broke in the back door.

In the kitchen they were confronted by the body of the woman suspended in mid-air. Upstairs in a bed were the two children, cold in death, pieces of rope still tied around their necks. The children were a boy and a girl, James and Hazel, aged ten and twelve years.

From the condition of the house it was evident that they were able to put up some sort of a struggle for their lives, but the frantic woman finally overcame them and by tying pieces of thin rope around their necks they were slowly strangled to death. After undressing them and placing them side by side in bed the woman then tied a piece of rope to the bottom of the bed in another room, the end of it being put through a stovepipe hole in the floor. Coming downstairs, the women then tied the loose end around her throat, mounted a table and jumped off.

The husband, who is a carpenter, was away from home, being engaged on a house some miles north of this town.

It is thought that the children were killed about midnight, as at that time a neighbor heard cries coming from the Pettigrew home. They did not know anything, however, and supposing that it was only a case of sickness, no attention was paid to them.

It was not until eleven o'clock next morning that the tragedy was discovered. At that time one of the neighbors remarked to another that she did not see the Pettigrew children playing around as usual. An examination was made of the house and it was found that all the blinds were down and all the doors locked. Several men were summoned and a door was broken in.

The woman's feet were within a couple of feet of the floor. It is not known whether the drop from the table caused death, or whether it was a case of strangulation.

Fancies Alberta's Land

Chicago.—Hope for cheaper meats in the United States is held out by the rapid growth of the alfalfa fed beef cattle and sheep industry in the western provinces of Canada, attention to which has just been called by the arrival in that section of the advance guard of an invading army of Australian sheep growers. F. W. Fairbairn, an Australian wool king, with headquarters in London, recently purchased 4,000 acres in Alberta for sheep raising purposes. Mr. Fairbairn is the largest grower of wool in the world, and his determination to have his son engage in the sheep industry in western Canada is taken as an indication that his future operations on a large scale will be on this continent.

Paper Mills Increase Shares

Montreal.—Sir William Van Horne in a circular sent to shareholders, announces that the Laurentide paper directors propose to double their capital, giving the present shareholders two shares of new for one share of old stock. It is proposed to sell all the assets and goodwill of the company to a new company incorporated under the name of the Laurentide Company, Limited, and to accept in payment therefore the shares of the new company of the aggregate par value of $7,000,000. The shareholders meet on August 30 to ratify the change.

Manitoba Farmer Horribly Mangled

Melita, Man.—A fatal accident occurred eight miles north of here, whereby John Lusing lost his life. He was mowing on his farm and his horses took fright and by some means he fell in front of the machine. His body was dragged some distance and fearfully mangled.

Fiendish Revenge on Army Officers

Lisbon.—Thirty army officers were poisoned at their mess dinner at Torres Novas recently, apparently from arsenic. Prompt use of stomach pumps saved the lives of all of them. It is presumed that the poisoning was an act of revenge.

King Signs Veto Bill

London.—The veto bill, limiting the powers of the upper chamber of legislation originating in the House of Commons has become a law, the king's assent thereto being given through a royal commission in the House of Lords.

Four Were Killed—Fourteen Injured

Joliet, Ill.—Four men were killed and fourteen were injured in an explosion at the Illinois Steel Works recently. One hundred men were in the building at the time and many had narrow escapes.

The Annual Meeting of the Methodist Ladies Aid will be held in the church next Wednesday Sept 6 at 2.30. All ladies interested are cordially invited to attend.

The meeting of the Lords Day Alliance, which was recently postponed, will be held in the Presbyterian Church on Wednesday Sept 13th at 8 o'clock. Rev C H Huestis M A will be the speaker, supported by Revs Chalmers and Davies. It is to be hoped there will be a large attendance of friends to hear Mr Huestis.

The Official Quarterly Board Meeting was held in the Methodist Church on Tuesday last, the Rev Robt Pearson, B A, Superintendent of the Red Deer District presiding. Amongst those present were: Rev F E Davies, Messrs R W Prowse, Charles Johnson, Fred H Hunter, and Wilfred Larrat. The other members being detained through pressure of business.

Deep and prayerful sympathy was expressed with Mr F W Bryenton in his serious illness.

Mention was also made of the faithful services of Mr R W Prowse (as Recording Stewart) who is leaving Bowden to reside at the Coast.

The usual report for the past Quarter was read and accepted and the various assessments for the year were agreed to. Rev Pearson referred to a communication he had received from the President of Conference showing that the Province of Alberta receives the largest grants from the Missionary Fund, of any Province in the Dominion, and returns the smallest amount. He urged the members of the Red Deer District to make a special effort to increase their gifts and follow the example of Manitoba Province, which last year returned to the Missionary Board an amount equal to what they had received. After a short discussion it was agreed to increase the amount raised in Bowden.

Rev Davies pointed out the advantage of the Duplex Envelope System and said if properly worked, it would assure the full assessments being met at the close of the financial year.

Mr R W Prowse was elected as Lay Delegate to the District meeting convened at Red Deer, Sept 6th and 7th.

A Jury's Decision

A Sunderland jury the other day said that they regarded the matter in hand as a very slight case of manslaughter. —London Globe.

Always Serviceable.—Most pills lose their properties with age. Not so with Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. The pill mass is compounded that their strength and effectiveness is preserved and the pills can be carried anywhere without fear of losing their potency. This is a quality that few pills possess. Some pills lose their power, but not so with Parmelee's. They will maintain their freshness and potency for a long time.

Green, blue, lavender, analine reds, purple and pink should be soaked in alum water—two ounces to a tub. Black, gray and dark blue should soak in strong salted water.

It is Wise to Prevent Disorder.—Many causes lead to disorders of the stomach and few are free from them. At the first manifestation that the stomach and liver are not performing their functions, a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be tried, and it will be found that the digestive organs will speedily resume healthy action. Laxatives and sedatives are so blended in these pills that no other preparation could be so effective as they.

WESTERN TOURIST TRAFFIC

Mountain Hotels Vastly Improved To Meet Continued Increase

Year by year the traffic to the Canadian Rocky Mountains is increasing at such a great rate that the mountain hotels have some trouble in satisfying all the demand for accommodation during the season. The Canadian Pacific Railway is continuously improving and adding to its chain of mountain hotels, but even with the extra facilities thus afforded the accommodations are taxed to the uttermost. Every train westward takes with it a new contingent of tourists, and it has become the fashionable thing to spend a week or ten days in the mountains before going on to the coast.

Banff, being in the centre of the Canadian National Park, is naturally one of the favorite stop-over points for travellers. It is situated in a district which is most advantageous for mountain climbing, fishing and other sports, and, as a result, the C. P. R.'s hotel at this point is well patronized. Recently the C. P. R. made several new improvements to the hotel, with the result that it is now more popular than ever. The improvements consisted of the addition of two new wings and a new swimming pool. The wings are built in the form of towers and contain sixty bedrooms. They are five storeys high, and, like the rest of the hotel, are of stone and mill construction. The ground floor of the new wing is given up to a spacious sun parlor while there is a driveway under the other wing. From now on this sun parlor will be a feature of the hotel accommodation. It is fifty feet square, and on three sides of it there is a raised dais reached by a series of steps, where the guests may rest while enjoying the view from the broad windows. Beyond the dais there is a conservatory where flowers bloom in great profusion, and the whole parlor is surrounded by glass walls, giving the sunlight free access to the room. The parlor is beautifully finished with couches and easy chairs, and the British Columbia ceiling is supported by a series of arches and columns. The swimming pool is situated north of the hotel and is protected by a number of awnings. It is 180 feet long and 60 feet wide, and is built entirely of concrete. There are sixty dressing rooms for guests wishing to use the pool, these being situated in a 180-foot building to the rear of the baths. The upper storey of this building is fitted up with Turkish baths, and there is underground connection with the hotel. In the centre of the large pool there is a small plunge bath where sulphur water is used. This smaller pool is 24 by 80 feet.

Both the sun parlor and the swimming pools were opened some time ago and they have been much praised by guests stopping at the hotel.

ZAM-BUK
SAVED THIS BABY

Mrs. M. Barrett, 404 Moreau St., Montreal, says: "A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soaps and powders and salves, but he got no better. He refused his food, got quite thin and worn, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sore. Not only so, but cured of the tormenting skin trouble, he has improved in general health."

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine vendors, 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 6 boxes for $3.50. A certain cure for all skin diseases, cuts, burns, etc., and for piles.
